

John Winsor Director / Retail & Restaurant Properties

John Winsor has a long history with the Olive Company, having been recruited by the company founders directly out of college in 1983. He started his career as a leasing agent for retail/office and restaurant properties. In 1985, just two years after joining the company, he became a partner and took on the additional responsibility of overseeing the leasing, marketing and management of Olive's retail properties. He was also involved in the complex leasing negotiations and marketing of a number of Class A and B office buildings.

In 1993, John took a one-year hiatus, working as Senior Leasing and Marketing Representative for Lamar Companies. After one year, he rejoined the newly formed Olive Real Estate Group as a principal specializing in retail and restaurant transactions. Over his career, his expertise has expanded to include sale and purchase of retail and restaurant land for third party clients, development of new anchored and strip shopping centers, shopping center renovation, renovation evaluation and planning, leasing strategy, marketing, advertising, and sales.

John is well-known and respected throughout the community where he has been involved with the YMCA's Big Brother program, Ronald McDonald House, Economic Development Council, The National Sports Center for the Disabled, and the Colorado College Athletic Board. When not in the office John Winsor can usually not be found.
